Courageous Humphrey Mother Wins State Title

A Platte County mother who refused to acknowledge defeat for a child born with multiple birth defects Tuesday was named Nebraska March of Dimes Mother for 1964.

The state title for Mrs. Melvin Bender, 33, of Humphrey, was announced by State March of Dimes Chairman Chauncey E. Barney of Lincoln.

As State March of Dimes Mother, Mrs. Bender automatically becomes honorary state chairman for the one-hour mothers' march to be conducted in cities and towns across the state the last week of January, Barney said.

"We came very close to losing Jim soon after birth," Mrs. Bender said of her second child, now 8.

His critical condition in-involved an incompatible parental RII blood factor of which the parents had been unaware.

"A complete blood transfusion and a long stay in the hospital saved our baby's life," she related. "But as the months passed we became acutely aware something was seriously wrong and by the time he was 2½ we were going everywhere trying to find the answer.

"His physical progress seemed normal in every way and the sparkle and alertness in his eyes told us his mentality had not been impaired, but there was a block somehow in his ability to communicate his thoughts.

"Day after day our hearts ached to see him try so hard to communicate his thoughts but he just couldn't formulate the words. Sounds, yes, but not intelligible words."

Through the Omaha Hearing School a special medical examination for Jimmy was arranged in late 1958.

Problem 'Aphasia'

"Here for the first time we were told that Jimmy's problem was 'aphasia,' defined as a total or partial loss of power to utilize words and language in communicating thoughts," she said.

Out-patient therapy sessions at the school brought little progress and any attempt to send the boy to public school was impractical.

Mrs. Dorothy Beal, head of the Omaha Hearing School, told the Benders of an outstanding center in St. Louis.

'March' Help Obtained

Mrs. Bender said March of Dimes help was sought and obtained through Ed Ernst of Duncan, chairman of the Platte County Chapter.

At the St. Louis center, experts confirmed that Jimmy had above average intelligence, and that in addition to speech aphasia, he had an unusual type of hearing defect requiring an expensive, custom-made hearing aid which the March of Dimes provided.

After a summer of intensive work with Jimmy at home, the family currently has him back in Omaha five days each week where he stays with Mrs. Bender's sister, Mrs. Harry Chandler, and attends the Omaha Hearing School.

"Here he is now able to make real progress both in his ability to understand language and produce speech sounds accurately," Mrs. Bender said. "This is the day for which we have fervently prayed for so long and we are so grateful to all the good people whose contributions to the March of Dimes have helped to make it possible."

Flier Smacks School, Takes His Own Life

Shawnee, Okla. (AP) — A former student radioed he intended to crash his plane into a school building Tuesday and five minutes later dived the craft into a classroom of Oklahoma Baptist University.

The flier, identified as Robert Lawson, 42, was killed. No one inside the building or on the campus was injured.

A class of about 40 students was in session in the building.

Fred Reese, manager at the municipal airport, said Lawson radioed that the building should be evacuated because he intended to crash into it and take his own life.

"I tried to stall him," Reese said. He said he was going in (to crash) in five minutes — and he did."

The plane crashed through the wall of Shawnee Hall, oldest building on the campus, one that was the administration building when Lawson was a student there.

The plane hit the third floor of the building and burst into flames as it fell to the ground outside the building. The pilot's body still was in the wreckage.

Mrs. Addie B. Choate, who was instructing a French class in the building, said it sounded "like a terrific bomb explosion." She and the students immediately left the building.

Authorities said Lawson buzzed the building several times before he made the final dive.

Lawson's son, Mike, attends the university.

10th Street's Interstate 180 Link To Open

The 10th St. connection to Interstate 180 outbound from Lincoln will be opened to traffic at noon Wednesday on a temporary basis, Deputy State Engineer G. C. Strobel announced Tuesday.

When contractors' operations resume in the spring, this connection will be closed to permit completion of the permanent construction, he explained.

Strobel said the closing in the spring may occur in April or May and will require one month to six weeks to complete the permanent connection at 10th and R streets.

Head-On Crash Kills Mullen Boy

Mullen (UPI) — A 15-year-old Mullen boy was killed Tuesday afternoon in a two-car, head-on crash on Neb. 2, one-half mile west of here.

The victim was James Ricky Phipps, 15. He was a passenger in a car driven by James Wright, 17, of Mullen.

Driver of the other car, 16-year-old Steve Ostergard of Mullen, was in critical condition. Wright and three other youths riding with him were in fair condition.

The death raised the Nebraska traffic fatality count for the year to 7, compared with 12 at the same time last year.

—Survives Cold— RESCUE SECOND AIRMAN

Cumberland, Md. (AP) — A helicopter crew rescued a second survivor of a B52 crash from subzero cold Tuesday, but the body of a third crewman was found in the wreckage and two others still were missing.

"What a good lookin' bunch of soldiers you are," said Capt. Parker C. Peedin, 29, Smithfield, N.C., to three men who waded to him through waist-deep snowdrifts from their copter.

They hurried Peedin to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where he joined Maj. Thomas W. McCormick, 42, Yawkey, Va., who struggled to a farmhouse Monday night. Both appeared to be in fair or good condition.

The dead crewman was identified by Maj. John Voss of the Strategic Air Command headquarters as Maj. Robert E. Townley, 42, of Gadsden, Ala. Townley had been listed as the plane's radar navigator.

His body was found in the B52 at the foot of Big Savage Mountain, 2,700 feet high in the Appalachian range about 20 miles west of Cumberland.

The eight-engine jet carried two unarmed nuclear weapons. Newsmen who visited the crash Tuesday reported one was covered by a tarpaulin and the other was covered by wreckage.

The SAC emphasized there was no danger of an explosion or of radioactivity. A spokesman said the nuclear weapons could be detonated only when activated by a crewman.

Maj. Gen. James W. Wilson of SAC headquarters in Omaha was in charge of two teams of disaster control crews which took charge of the weapons.

Civil Air Patrol and rescue teams, Army helicopters and Air Force flyers marked off an area about three miles wide and ten miles long into 28 grids and methodically searched for the men still missing.

Peedin was found about six miles east of where McCormick trudged to safety, and about a dozen miles north-northeast of the crash site.

Mrs. Kennedy Gives Emotional Thank You

Washington (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy gave an emotional personal thank you broadcast Tuesday for nearly 800,000 messages she said have been a source of comfort since the assassination of her husband.

"The knowledge of the affection in which my husband was held by all of you sustained me, and the warmth of these tributes is something I shall never forget," she said in a statement broadcast live nationwide on television and radio.

In a low voice, scarcely audible to those around her, Mrs. Kennedy said it is her greatest wish to acknowledge all of the letters sent her, even though "it will take a long time to do so."

Tears In Eyes

Tears welled in her eyes and her voice showed emotion when she said she reads the letters "whenever I can bear to," and referring to her late husband, murmured:

"All his bright light gone from the world."

"All of you who have written to me know how much we all loved him and that he returned that love in full measure," she said.

It was the first formal public statement by the 34-year-old former first lady since the death of her husband.

Looked Well

She looked well, wore pale lipstick and appeared tan. She smiled and chatted as technicians prepared for her appearance.

Mrs. Kennedy, who plans to observe a full year of mourning, wore a simple black dress, with hip length jacket with three-quarter sleeves. Her only jewelry was two rings, both given to her by her husband.

It took her less than two minutes to deliver the 269-word statement. She sat in a big tan leather armchair before a blazing fireplace in the office of her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, and held her hands tightly together in her lap as she spoke.

Brothers There

The late President's two brothers, Robert and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., sat on a red couch nearby.

Mrs. Kennedy said, "Each and every message is to be treasured not only for my children but so that future generations will know how much our country and people in other nations thought of him."

She said thanks on behalf of her children and the President's family "for all the comfort your letters brought to us all."

In Library

Mrs. Kennedy said the letters eventually will be placed in the Kennedy Library to be erected on the Charles River in Boston.

She expressed hope that the library, for which she already has received thousands of dollars in donations, will become "a living center of study of the times in which he (Kennedy) lived and a center for young people and scholars from all over the world."

Mrs. Kennedy, wearing a black mink coat, came to the Justice Department about 25 minutes ahead of the 2 p.m., EST, time of her statement and was met in the snowy street by Robert Kennedy.

Before she left the attorney general's office, she went to say hello to some reporters who had covered her activities as first lady.

She smiled, appeared in good spirits. The attorney general kissed her goodbye before she left.

Her secretaries brought along a sampling of some of the thousands of messages, still coming in from around the world.

Sad Poem

There was a sad poem to the riderless horse of the funeral cortege from a 16-year-old, a little boy's promise to remember the slain President every night in his prayers.

A 14-year-old blind girl told how she "cried at the news."

Including 1903 Canal Treaty

... AFTER RELATIONS RESUME

Panama, Wednesday (AP) — The United States agreed today to enter negotiations with Panama on all issues between the two countries 30 days after Panama resumes diplomatic relations with Washington.

No limitation was put on the negotiations, meaning that the U.S.-Panamanian treaty under which the United States holds the Panama Canal Zone will be included.

An announcement said agreement was reached at 1:10 a.m. at a meeting of Panamanian Foreign Minister Galileo Solis and Edwin M. Martin, chief U.S. negotiator, with the Inter-American Peace Commission sent to Panama by the Organization of American States (OAS) last Friday at the height of the crisis.

'Soon As Possible'

The OAS commission announced the United States and Panama would re-establish diplomatic relations "as quickly as possible."

The special OAS committee said the United States and Panama also have "agreed to begin formal discussions which will be initiated 30 days after diplomatic relations have been re-established . . . to discuss without limitations all existing matters of any nature which might affect the relations between the United States and Panama."

Before tonight's agreement, Panama had insisted that a strong U.S. declaration of intention to revise the canal treaty should precede a resumption of diplomatic relations. The treaty gave the United States perpetual sovereignty over the Canal Zone.

The United States was unwilling to make such a pledge under pressure, it was reported.

Flags To Fly Together At Canal Schools

Balboa, C.Z. (AP) — The Panamanian and American flags will fly together Wednesday at Canal Zone Schools and a stern disciplinary action was promised by the zone command for anyone, adult or child, who attempted to interfere.

Penalties including eviction from the Canal Zone, which at this time would mean deportation to the United States, were promised by Zone Gov. Thomas J. Fleming Jr.

The government's intentions were made clear in a brief but stern announcement delivered Tuesday at special public meetings in theaters throughout the zone. One adult member of each civilian and military family was required to attend.

In addition, representatives of the governor toured Canal Zone offices with the government pronouncement.

Fleming, through his aides, said the U.S. government would not tolerate further embarrassment in connection with the situation.

"Any person or their children found taking part in anything construed as embarrassing will be evicted from the Canal Zone."

The rioting, which last week left many dead and injured, was touched off by intense feeling over flying of the two countries' flags.

Hanson To Call Committee Parley

Democratic State Chairman Russell Hanson of New-castle Tuesday said he will call a meeting of the party's state central committee for sometime within the next month.

Hanson said he does not know whether President Johnson's name will appear on the May 12 presidential primary ballot.

On other matters, Hanson said he would decide "before too long" whether to enter the race for the First District congressional post now held by Republican Rep. Ralph Beermann of Dakota City.

★ ★ ★ Unofficial Pleasure Revealed

Washington (AP) — U.S. officials privately greeted with pleasure Tuesday night reports that the United States and Panama have agreed to a future discussion of outstanding differences between the two nations.

There was no official State Department comment on reports from Panama that the two nations will review their differences, including the 1903 treaty granting the United States rights to the Panama Canal Zone.

But U.S. officials noted that this country's position throughout the crisis has been that the problems should be thrashed out at the conference table, without threats.

This does not mean, they said, that the United States is precommitting itself to any renegotiation of the zone treaty. But they said the United States might be willing to hold talks without an agenda, which would give Panama an opportunity to bring up any subject, including treaty revision. And the United States would be willing to hear what Panama has to say on the subject — without necessarily agreeing to a treaty revision.

Stalling

U.S. officials spent much of the day stalling off Panamanian pressure for ouster of U.S. diplomats while they pushed for a peaceful resolution of the crisis.

"The first need is to keep our shirts on," Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield said after seeing President Johnson.

In another development, Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance reported that at least 10 suspected Castro-trained agents have been arrested in connection with last week's mob violence, including one sniper who shot at U.S. soldiers.

Mansfield spoke to newsmen after a White House meeting at which Democratic leaders got a report from Johnson on the Panamanian situation.

Mansfield said: "No matter how the trouble started or who knocked the stick off whose shoulder first, a lot of innocent people, including four American soldiers, have been killed and many more injured. The first need is to keep our shirts on."

Not Alone

"It is not for us alone to establish who is right or wrong in this incident. That has got to be established impartially. When it has been, we will be big enough to accept our responsibility. We hope that the Panamanians will be strong enough to do the same."

Vance told a news conference that Castro Communist agents "measurably increased the amount of violence" that erupted over last Thursday's flag raising incident in the Canal Zone. His statements supported Rusk's thesis that the crisis probably would have been avoided if the Panamanian student-flag raisers had been allowed to end their demonstration peacefully.

Informal Power Committee Formed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Public power leaders Tuesday organized a new informal industry committee, but generally agreed that it should act chiefly as a fact-gathering unit to assist the Nebraska Power Review Board.

Jack Boyd of Holdrege, general manager of Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District, was named chairman.

E. E. Schwalm of Omaha, representing the Omaha Public Power District, was elected vice chairman, and Ralph Foreman of Columbus, manager of the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, Inc., was named secretary.

Meeting Set

The group will meet with the Power Review Board Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

The board had requested industry leaders who were members of the defunct Nebraska Public Power Committee to reorganize on an informal basis to assist the new board.

Tuesday's meeting featured two hours of discussion as to what service the informal committee can properly perform.

Consumers Public Power District General Manager Ray Schacht of Columbus suggested that the unit limit itself to gathering facts and "stop short of recommendations."

Norris Public Power District General Manager Lester Trussell of Beatrice agreed essentially, arguing that the committee should "not give advice on who builds a transmission line or who should build a plant."

But Grand Island Utilities Commissioner Frank Phelps sharply disagreed: "We will provide no service unless we recommend."

Phelps said that the committee should act as a group, instead of as individuals.

"If we stay on a competitive basis and continue to play it on an economic basis, instead of in the best interests of the ultimate customer, then this effort is doomed," he said.

OPPD General Manager C. F. Moulton of Omaha said the board had indicated that it wants the group to form a liaison committee which would report to the board on activities within the industry committee.

But the committee "has no business making board of director decisions," Moulton pointed out.

Foreman said the board has indicated that it wants the committee to suggest "how future loads are going to be served."

Lincoln Public Utilities Superintendent Lee Blocker noted that the committee could be a useful forum for each power agency to "tell how it expects to meet load growth requirements."

Schwalm also emphasized the point that exchange of future plans could be useful to all agencies.

Frank Wolf of Omaha, another OPPD representative, suggested that the more cooperation the board receives from the industry, "the less apt it is to request the Legislature for more authority."

Moulton revealed that OPPD plans to install its next generation unit sometime in 1967 or 1968, subject to Power Board approval.

The group appointed Trussell, Schacht and Phelps to a committee assigned to recommend rules of procedure, and tentatively stated its next meeting for March 17.

Ready Crash Attack

...IN VIET NAM

Tan An, Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam is concentrating half its airborne forces for a crash campaign to destroy the Communist hold on Long An Province, a buffer between Saigon and the Mekong delta. They will jump off Wednesday.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge underscored the importance of the new battle plan with a whirlwind inspection trip Tuesday. He has committed maximum American support for the drive.

Three full battalions of Vietnamese paratroopers backed by regular army infantry, military and civilian psychological warfare teams and U.S. advisors at every administrative level are moving in.

How Long
"How long will we be here?" a Vietnamese officer said. "Three months—six months—who knows? We'll be here for as long as the job takes."

Rich Long An Province, only 30 miles south of Saigon, has been steadily taken over by Communist guerrillas and political propagandists in the past two years and the situation has become strategically critical. The province is regarded as a gateway to the entire Mekong River delta.

The projected cleanup drive reflects an over-all shift in government military thinking. The idea is to move strong regular units into key areas and keep them there until the areas have been secured, working from most secure parts out into the Communist zones.

Pattern
In the past government operations generally have followed the pattern of raids, after which strong forces were withdrawn and the Red Viet Cong moved back in.

The town of Tan An, 45 miles southwest of Saigon, is a control point for the new drive.

Initial objectives are modest. Major government units are taking over six hamlets—all fairly near Tan An and all reasonably secure already. From these six hamlets they plan to work slowly outward into the areas of increasing communist strength.

Failed In Past
Large scale government operations in small areas against the Viet Cong generally have failed in the past, for varying reasons.

In early 1962, the government attempted a huge resettlement program called "Operation Sunrise" 30 miles north of Saigon. After millions of dollars were poured into the venture, it was given up as a failure.

Officials believed that plan failed because the government had tried to move into the area, solidly dominated by the Communists without adequate preparation.

Another huge operation "Waves of Love" was carried out one year ago near the southern tip of the country, but this also failed. That area since has been virtually abandoned to the Viet Cong.

Death Toll Hits 140; Storm Moves Out

New York (AP)—The winter's worst snowstorm moved out to sea off New England Tuesday, leaving behind a death toll of 140 and a large section of the nation digging out from a snowy paralysis.

Billowing snowfall gave way to generally clearing skies and bitterly cold temperatures.

But the effects of the storm gripped an area from the Midwest to the Atlantic and the South to New England.

Florida citrus growers prepared heaters for the lowest temperatures since the crop-killing freeze 13 months ago.

Buses and trains ran hours behind schedule. Air travel, virtually halted along the Eastern Seaboard, slowly resumed. Schools were closed in many sections and high job absenteeism was reported.

Concord, N.H. (UPI)—The name of President Johnson was entered in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary Tuesday.

The action was one of several developments in the primary campaign.

Castro Frolics In Moscow

... PLAYS INSIDE KREMLIN WALLS

Moscow (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro Tuesday turned from serious political talks to frolic with a group of children in a Kremlin playground. He went down an ice slide on a carpet and generally acted the part of a Pied Piper.

The Cuban, here on an unexpected winter visit to Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, refused to give up his favored beret but he swathed himself in a black overcoat with fur collar to combat the snow with the children.

He held the reins of a pony-drawn sleigh and joined in a "round dance" with delighted children in the winter garden inside the Kremlin walls, a snow and ice paradise for youngsters with toboggan-like ice runs, sleigh rides and a giant Father Frost snowman that talks through a microphone.

Castro caught the spirit of winter. He sat down on a carpet and skidded and spun down the ice run to the delight of clapping children who have been told that the Cuban is a hero of a glorious country, Freedom Island.

Next he squatted in a pony-drawn sleigh with a snow-suited child tucked in behind him and drove around the grounds. Then he danced a ring-around-the-rosy with the children, his breath steaming in 21-degree cold.

Castro arrived from Havana without prior notice Monday, leading to conjecture the Russians might be making a reappraisal of growing and ever more costly commitments in the Caribbean island. No word of what was being discussed leaked through the Kremlin walls.

As if to give substance to the official version that he is here principally to see Moscow in all its wintry splendor, Castro came out to play in the snow.

Moscow radio reported that he chatted with the children and advised them to study hard.

"Knowledge," he told them, "is the basis of all progress."

An informed source said Castro's consultations with Khrushchev will last a week, with some time set aside for relaxation and hunting. He has conferred with Khrushchev and President Leonid Brezhnev.

Moscow television, building up the spirit of hearty friendship, broadcast sequences of Castro puffing on a long Havana cigar in Khrushchev's office near a portrait of V. I. Lenin and occasionally glancing at two wrist watches on his left wrist.

Liz Becomes Impatient, Seeks Mexican Divorce

Puerto Vallarta, Mexico (UPI)—Glamorous film actress Elizabeth Taylor filed for divorce Tuesday against singer Eddie Fisher to clear the decks for her much-anticipated marriage to Welsh actor Richard Burton.

Fisher was given 20 days to answer the suit filed in the court of first instance here after Miss Taylor became impatient with negotiations to work out an amicable divorce settlement.

Liz, who plans to marry Burton in Mexico when her divorce is granted, asked only for the custody of Lizzy, the German girl she and Fisher adopted during their childless marriage.

She sought no property settlement, saying their fortunes had not been earned jointly. The suit was filed before Judge Arcadio Estrada Quintones, who last month granted Sybil Burton a divorce from her husband.

Apparently tired of waiting for an amicable divorce agreement with Fisher, Miss Taylor had ordered attorney Antonio Valenzuela to draw up divorce papers Monday for a contested divorce suit on grounds of separation from her husband.

She filed under what her attorneys described as a "unique" aspect of Mexican law enabling unilateral action after a couple have been separated a year or more. Fisher is presently in Las Vegas fulfilling a night club engagement.

The suit climaxed for Liz a romance started with Burton on the sets of the movie "Cleopatra". He would be her fifth husband.

At stake for Fisher was his share of her earnings in "Cleopatra," an arrangement made during their four years and eight months of married life.

Liz filed the suit after attorneys for her and Fisher in New York apparently failed to conclude a property settlement.

Cubans Reportedly Seen On Zanzibar

Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika (AP)—U.S. refugees arriving from Zanzibar Tuesday said they saw Spanish-speaking soldiers wearing Cuban type uniforms in the ranks of rebels who overthrew the island's government.

Stuart Lillioe, public affairs officer of the U.S. Embassy in Zanzibar, said one of these alien soldiers led the rebels in capturing the office of the British Cable and Wireless Co. in Sunday's coup. There is no official confirmation, however, that there are Cubans there.

The U.S. destroyer Manley arrived with all but two of the 63 Americans on Zanzibar, the spice island which only Dec. 10 became independent of Britain and joined the British Commonwealth.

Most of the Americans were staff members of a U.S. satellite tracking station and their dependents. They said the tracking station was abandoned and was intact when they left. The lease for the tracking station has expired but the United States had hoped to get a renewal from the sultan of Zanzibar, now ousted.

Washington considers the rebel regime Communist oriented. Zanzibar calls the new regime one of African nationalists.

All leading members of the rebel regime made up the political opposition to the conservative government of Sultan Seyyid Jamsheed Bin Abdullah, who was forced to flee in his yacht. His yacht is reported now outside the harbor of Dar es Salaam.

Some of the refugees told of fighting that left corpses strewn in streets, but they said foreigners were not molested. Latest reports say at least six were killed in the fighting in the city of Zanzibar and the final figure for the island may reach 50. More than 2,000 persons were reported wounded.

Lillioe said the man who led in the capture of the cable office looked like a Cuban and spoke Spanish but no Swahili, the most common language on Zanzibar.

Peter Delafosse, a British subject, declared he was sure there actually were Cubans among the rebels. He mentioned seeing two men with Cuban-style battle jackets.

Vocational School Designation Sought

The Lincoln Public Schools will seek federal designation as an area vocational technical school under the National Defense Education Act, Dr. Chester Gausman told school board members Tuesday.

The vocational school designation — which would allow the Lincoln system to offer courses much like those at the Millford Training School — carries matching funds from the federal government.

Gausman, director of vocational education, industrial arts and adult education, told board members that the county-wide program could bring in federal funds to broaden the present adult education program.

The cost for the inside installation at 26 schools was placed at $11,485. Cost for placing outside equipment at eight locations where none is now available was not given. A delegation of parents fa-

Bids On West Lincoln School Okayed After Lengthy Study

Low bids on an addition to West Lincoln Elementary School were accepted by the Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday, following a lengthy probe into the reasons bids were considerably higher than on recent construction projects.

Architect Marvin Robinson set the bidding costs of the addition at $16.16 per square foot, more than a dollar per square foot over the cost of other recent construction figures.

He assured the board members, however, that the bids on the project were "good ones" and not inflated because of lack of interest by the bidders. He explained the increased costs by the need for construction of a boiler room, addition of two new boilers and other equipment which is

Board Purchases Burlington, South Site For School

Purchases of 10.5 acres of land at Burlington and South, about eight blocks west of the city limits, was authorized by the Lincoln School Board Tuesday at a cost of $13,125.

The land, purchased as a school site, is expected to be required because of plans of the C & D Inc. development company to build approximately 80 homes in the surrounding area.

The land lies in School District 51.

Purchase of outlying property by the schools is now in progress to meet the needs of future housing developments.

terms remain open until Friday.

Barney said a Tuesday deadline for lease acceptance had been set by the authority's negotiating committee, but the board agreed to extend the offer until Friday.

The board's proposed monthly rental terms are $5 per square foot for office and counter space; $4 for baggage claim area, and $3 for heated ramp and storage, and a land fee of 10 cents per 1,000 pounds gross weight.

Authorily said the offered rates are comparable with cities of Lincoln's size and are in line with capital costs in the recent expansion of the Terminal Building.

The board was also advised that Selmer Solheim, consulting architect to the Authority, has been given a list of corrections to be made in the Terminal Building and payment of architectural fees is being withheld until changes are made.

Chairman Leo Beck Jr. said the architect and contractor have also been asked for the tentative completion date on the building expansion and enclosed ramp.

In other action, the board:

- authorized the printing of 10,000 cards with airport rules and regulations for pilots.
- authorized purchase of 75 directional signs, not to exceed $1,000, for installation on routes to the airport. The city will install the signs, officials said.
- agreed to continue the $1,000 per month lease for use of Union Airport until April 30 for orderly transition of operations and fixed based operators from Union to Lincoln Municipal Airport.
- signed an agreement with the State Aeronautics Department for a $32,000 assistance grant on the new Terminal Building expansion.
- agreed to meet Thursday with Lincoln Air Force Base officials regarding dedication and open house ceremonies for the new municipal runway and facilities May 22-24.
- appointed members Robert Phillips and Fred Eiche to the 1964 budget committee. The new fiscal budget must be ready May 1.

plained, fees charged for enrollment could be used to meet the school district's share of the matching funds.

He visualized the school as having year-round classes in a variety of technical skills to be held in present high school buildings after regular school hours, and in the new Lincoln East High School, when available.

He said that equipment purchased for the adult vocational courses would thus be available to high school students for use during school hours.

Reporting on the progress of re-training classes under the Manpower Training Act —completely paid for by the federal government — Dr. Gausman said courses being planned call for expenditure of $324,000 and will accommodate 314 trainees in stenographic and business skills and as dental assistants.

Dr. William E. Hall, director of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism, was awarded Printer's Ink magazine's silver medal award.

The award was presented to Dr. Hall at the Lincoln Advertising Club's January meeting Tuesday night. The club sponsored Dr. Hall's nomination, "for building the Nebraska School of Journalism into one of the most outstanding departments in the country."

Under Hall's administration the faculty and students of the journalism school have won many honors, including the Hearst Foundation National Collegiate Writing Award, presented by the late President Kennedy for both 1961-62 and 1962-63.

Donald J. Martin, vice president of J. Walter Thompson Advertising agency in Chicago, was guest speaker. He said an advertiser entering a trading area has to adjust to disparities of climate, patterns of distribution, individual laws governing the sale of his products, and in Western Europe, the common market and 12 different languages, Martin said.

Top County Board Post To Grossman

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday elected William Grossman chairman of the board, succeeding Ralph Harlan.

Grossman, a Democrat, has served as vice chairman for the past two years and is expected to seek re-election for a second term on the board this year.

The sole Republican on the board, Kenneth Bourne, was elected vice chairman.

In reorganization Tuesday for the new year, the board made the following appointments:

Matron of the jail, Gertrude Karnopp; relief director, Philip Samelson; public welfare director, John Gage; physician, Dr. C. W. Dean; county emergency shop, Mrs. Luella Hurley; building superintendent, Dallas Fifer; building inspector, Hugh Dillon and law librarian, Hershel Graham.

The commissioners will assume the following responsibilities for 1964: Welfare, health, civil defense, court-house, trailer courts, telephone operations and photocopying, Bourne; fireman, emergency shop and zoning, Harlan; and relief, detention home and Wesleyan Nursing Home, all members.

In other action, a request was made for more equipment and funds for the Weed Control District.

The board suggested the District submit a more specific plan after its annual meeting Feb. 25.

A weak Pacific cold front extends from northwest North Dakota to south eastern Idaho and then into western Arizona. It is likely to work its way eastward and be in extreme eastern Nebraska by Wednesday night. Some areas of northwest Nebraska may be hit by a cold front Wednesday and western Iowa will have some local high clouds amounting to generally fair skies. It will be slightly warmer in eastern Nebraska Wednesday as well as in Iowa. An inverted trough of low pressure developing in New Mexico may cause some increase of clouds in southern Nebraska Wednesday night, but the center of action is far enough southwest that no precipitation is expected to get this far north.

World Can And Does Stop

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The average person lives with the thought in mind that there are certain things that must be done and that nothing can be permitted to get in the way. There is much to be said in favor of this attitude because without some kind of minimum level of performance, the world could become quite a disorganized place. Without some measure of conformity—a hated word by some people—civilization would actually be quite uncivilized.

Yet, there can at times be a substantial reversal of form and with no ill effects.

No Thought Of Delay

For instance, there were thousands of persons traveling through Illinois in recent days. They were caught in the middle of one of the worst snow storms to have hit the East in a good many years. Most of these people were traveling with a firm objective or destination in mind and they would have been quite concerned if anyone had suggested they simply alter their plans and sit out a day or two along the way. This would make them late in their arrival and such action just wasn't to be tolerated.

However, the destination or objective is important only in a relative manner. It is more important than many considerations but is less important than others. With the snow storm, suddenly there were hosts of travelers who found more important things than arriving on time at wherever it was they were going.

These travelers, from Illinois on to New York, found that their arrival at a fixed time was in conflict with their ability to travel and their safety. They discovered that, due to the severity of the snow storm, they had better call off their traveling for a day or two until the weather provided them greater safety, greater assurance of arriving, at all.

Once they had decided this, the rest was easy for them. None of them would even have entertained the thought of not arriving on time just for the heck of it. They would not have dreamed of simply sitting out a day in some small town, getting to know any of the people there and bedding down for the night as best they could but without the leisure to which they might ordinarily be accustomed. Day after day, people arise in the morning and go about their daily tasks with the conviction that they must do so. They wouldn't dream of simply following that small voice inside of them that says to heck with the job today, to heck with work, to heck with all the rest of the world.

Zanzibar Tragedy

It was only last December 10 that the former British protectorate of Zanzibar became a sovereign state.

It seemed to be a good thing to do. Zanzibar, an island off the coast of Africa, lies across important trade routes. It produces spice for which there is good demand. Its people were well trained in public administration by the British and enjoyed better than average school and health facilities. The island included several races, but it seemed they had mastered the problem of getting along together.

A few things were doubtful. As a nation Zanzibar would be a microscopic one, hardly qualifying in terms of population and economic potential. But the natives were wise. They desired to make the effort. And so it was done. The British hauled down the Union Jack and the new Zanzibar

It is a good thing they don't follow any such voice with any kind of frequency or they might find some morning that there was no job to go to, but they can and do walk away from it all when the occasion demands or permits it and the world is none the worse for their having done so. If they are ill, it is nothing to stay at home. Sometimes they will stay at home even if others are ill, such as a mother with small children would do or a husband whose wife is more than casually sick. They will stay at home when there is some other pressing personal matter to motivate them and at none of these times is the world set back for a loss. In fact, such absence doesn't even make a ripple on the surface of the world.

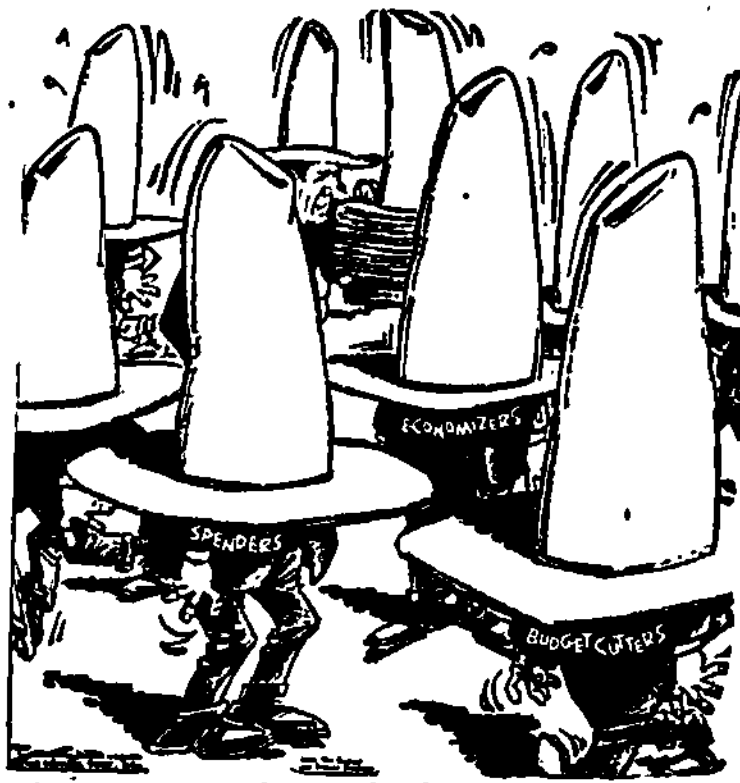

The reality of our role or place in the scheme of things is a pretty good one to keep in mind. In the case of an occasional day at home, it may not do much of anything for us at the moment. In fact, the day at home if you are ill can be a pretty miserable one and a regular day at work is much to be preferred.

Such an interruption as provided travelers in the east during the past few days can be a rewarding experience in and of itself. The small towns along Illinois highways were loaded with unexpected overnight guests but the best was made of things and reports are that all enjoyed themselves. The hosts were happy to help the distressed strangers and the guests were delighted to find a friendly place of shelter.

Who knows but that some lasting changes for the better might come about in the lives of these people as a result of their unexpected association with one another. For most it will make no lasting difference but it is amazing to contemplate the comparatively little things in life that have had such a tremendous place in the developments that are the milestones of our family and careers. Too, when we live with a good understanding of our own relative importance, we are likely to find things a lot less complex.

As a result, we should be more relaxed and easy to get along with, thereby actually improving our situation in a kind of reverse order of things. We will all live the greater part of our lives face to face with a certain amount of responsibility but the load becomes lighter if we keep in mind that the indispensable individual has yet to inhabit this earth.

Panama A Result Of Our Diplomacy

WASHINGTON — There are three important chapters in the backstage story of our troubles in Panama, all involving either war or politics.

Chapter No. 1—Was told to me by Harry Truman some years after he left the White House. He said that at the Potsdam conference in 1945 just a few weeks after V-E day, he had proposed that all great waterways be internationalized—the Panama Canal, the Kiel Canal, the Rhine-Danube waterway from the North Sea to the Black Sea, the Bosphorus and the Suez Canal.

"These great waterways, I proposed, should be set aside for the use of all nations," Truman said. "However, neither Stalin nor Churchill would listen."

Chapter No. 2—Took place just before the 1956 election when Israel, England and France advanced on the Suez Canal to take it back from Colonel Nasser.

The British on June 14, 1956, were persuaded to withdraw the troops with which they had guarded the vital British life line for 74 years. Almost immediately—July 26—Nasser moved in with Egyptian troops. Three months later, October 31, the British and French, smarting from the sting of Nasser's seizure, moved to take the canal back—by force.

But this coincided with the reelection campaign of Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was running on the claim that he had prevented war, and found that the British, French and Israelis had pulled the peace rug right out from under him.

Thereupon took place two of the most historic transatlantic phone conversations in this century when Ike told Prime Minister Anthony Eden in barrack room language to take his British troops out of Suez and told Premier Mollet of France the same thing—in less vigorous language because he had to talk through an interpreter.

Chapter No. 3—took place in late September, 1962, during another election campaign—that of Richard Nixon vs. John F. Kennedy.

Nixon knew that Nov. 3, just before he hoped the American people would vote for him, was Panama's Fourth of July, a day which sees a lot of flag waving. He knew that on Nov. 3, the year before, Panamanians had staged a riot during which Dr. Aquilino Boyd, the former foreign minister, had led a group of students to the front of the American embassy, seized the Stars and Stripes, spat upon it and tore it to shreds.

So to head off such riots, the Eisenhower administration issued the historic declaration that the Panamanian flag would fly alongside the American flag inside the Canal Zone.

Engle's Illness Scrambles Race

WASHINGTON — When President Johnson arrives in California next month, he will be confronted with a rough Democratic senatorial primary fight, uncertain of outcome, complicated by emotion and about which he can do little.

This is the prospect held out to the White House by state leaders after they had called upon the incumbent, Sen. Clair Engle, who is slowly recovering from brain surgery performed last August 24. They were dismayed by what they saw and strongly doubt that other candidates can be dissuaded from making the Senate race.

The President is peculiarly affected by Democratic fortunes in vote-rich California. In 1960 his emissaries made absolutely no dent on the convention delegates and his presidential ambitions were never taken seriously in the state.

Today his standing is a question and he will be unusually dependent on the party's organizing powers and public appeal. If it were not for the misfortune of Senator Engle's illness, they would serve him well on all fronts. Gov. Pat Brown won re-election last year from Richard Nixon with 300,000 votes to spare, and Democrats control the legislature. They are getting along together rather better than usual.

But the senatorial primary will siphon off money and may arouse emotion. As of now, Senator Engle's announcement that he will seek re-election stands. Rep. James Roosevelt, Attorney General Stanley Mosk and State Controller Alan Cranston are waiting in the wings. The picture should be clear sometime between January 25, when the state central

MARQUIS CHILDS

Chief Justice—Storm Center

WASHINGTON—In a decade tumultuous if not revolutionary, as old faiths and old creeds have been shaken everywhere in the world, there has been at least one constant. It is the solid, resolute figure of the Chief Justice of the United States, Earl Warren of California.

During his 10 years of service as the head of the third and coordinate branch of government the court has been at the center of the racial storm. Time and again new ground was broken in a period when the executive branch hesitated or evaded in the face of fierce pressures for change from every part of the country.

In December of 1963, when he had been on the court only two months, arguments were heard in the case of Brown vs. The Board of Education. On May 17, 1954, a unanimous court under the leadership of the new chief justice handed down one of the most momentous decisions in its history. The ancient doctrine of "separate but equal" for Negro schools was rejected and integration of the public school system of the nation ordered with "all deliberate speed."

Underscoring the decade on the court, and the vilification it has earned the chief justice in some quarters, is the new and onerous task he has reluctantly taken on. Two distinguished emissaries came to see the chief justice shortly after John F. Kennedy's assassination. The new President believed it was imperative that he be chairman of a commission to investigate every aspect of the crime.

The argument was that only an independent tribunal of the highest standing could dispel the ugly rumors current around the world about the assassination and the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald. The chief justice heard them out. He then told them that with profound regret he must decline the assignment, citing the deep feeling, going back to the origins of the court when a chief justice and an associate justice took diplomatic assignments in Europe, against outside activity by members of the court.

Less than an hour later the President himself was on the phone and shortly after that the chief justice sat across from Mr. Johnson in the office to which the new President was still so unaccustomed. Chief Justice Warren went again over the reasons he could not and should not head the commission of inquiry.

"You've worn the uniform of your country, haven't you?" the President asked. "If I were to ask you to put it on again you would do it, wouldn't you? That's what I'm asking you to do now."

There was, of course, no refusing a request put that way and the chief justice agreed to head the panel of first-rank citizens examining all the facts of the tragedy. While it includes once again highly controversial issues, involving sit-down demonstrations in the South, the case load of the court this term is fortunately normal. After next week the court will not hear arguments for a full month and the chief justice expects to devote his full time to the work of the commission.

Able lawyers of high repute from around the country have been recruited to sift the voluminous reports that have come from the FBI, the secret service and many other sources. They will present what will be in effect briefs on various aspects of the case. No consideration had been given, despite reports to the contrary, to things the commission seeks.

Warren's acceptance of the chairmanship has brought on new attacks from the rabid right and even from certain mass circulation newspapers. The line is that since the court has been "soft on communism" no honest report can be expected. This comes from the same groups that have called for his impeachment. When he appeared in New York in October to receive a legal honor pickets lunged at him and Mrs. Warren with their placards.

But the solid citizen from California, who has taken a workmanlike view of the law with no pretensions to legal flourishes during his decade on the court, is outwardly unperturbed. Rarely has any man coming to Washington in high office shown so few signs of Potomac fever. He has not been afraid to side with the minority as in the civil liberties cases decided by five to four against a number of individuals. His armor is apparently a sense of duty done in taking decisions, however unpopular, in an era of unprecedented change.

Luxury Items

Anslemo, Neb.

It seems we must raise taxes some way, but what to tax? We are raising taxes on cars and trucks. There is always the property tax, but no sales or incomes taxes yet. Cars are a necessity as much as food, clothing or anything else. They are not a luxury. Why not raise taxes on just luxuries?

Why not double the taxes on liquor? It is a luxury and causes more highway deaths and breaks up more homes than anything else. We spent over $9 billion for liquor last year. It seems we always have plenty of money for that. Congress moved a liquor bar into the Capitol to save them time and cocktail parties take so much time that they don't get much legislation passed. Would we like it if our county boards moved liquor bars into our courthouses?

Why must we keep raising taxes on necessities?

Learning A Trade

Lincoln, Neb.

The picture in the January 10 Star of the six young men who had finished an apprenticeship training in brick-laying interested me very much. I understand that those appearing in the picture were but half the number in the graduating group.

There are two reasons for my interest. First is the willingness of the Associated General Contractors and the brick-layers' union to sponsor such training. Then, I am pleased to note that there are still those among us who are interested in furthering their own worth through taking such training.

I, too, learned a skill as a young man but was unable to pursue it for reasons beyond my own control. Nevertheless, that early rather exacting training has always stood me in good stead throughout my professional life, although the latter was quite in contrast to my earlier training.

Johnson Speech

Lincoln, Neb.

This is addressed to all people everywhere. If the recent speech by President Johnson doesn't draw verbal complaint from interested people everywhere, who is to blame if the government is attacked from within by the left-leaning subversives who claim the right to expound their views—guaranteed by the free speech of the Constitution—regardless of their minority status in this country?

Anyone who does not give more than lip service to combat these views cannot grumble if things which are hurting business are allowed to expand.

There has been no better disclosure of the failure to take the right course than was expressed by Senator Curtis who said that the speech promised more things to more people and with less taxes.

If these people who enjoy their liberty as guaranteed by the Constitution feel their descendants—sons and daughters—should have the continued freedom, they had better wake up before it is too late.

I know of no better advocates for the principles, as we enjoy them, than the old people—seventy years and more—with no descendants who are doing their utmost to awaken the public to the dangers which face us. I know of but one Lincoln concern that is going out of its way to promote a growing concern for our country. As for paying a man $20,000 or more for such speech writing, there are plenty of fellows in the jungles who could write as well and would be glad to do it for a few good meals.

Blames Harvard

Lincoln, Neb.

The "pay me" state should not be laid at the door of the late FDR. No, if someone must be blamed, it is better to blame the school of the young rich, Harvard. Why this should be a curious dichotomy. Suffice it is to say that the young rich who attended the school had not had their minds hardened by hard labor before they got there. Thus they were easily led by stronger wills than their own.

Perhaps it all stemmed from a ruling of that great Harvardian, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. When he was a justice in Massachusetts, he ruled that it was legal for Boston to sell coal to the poor. His ruling was never overturned. Then it was legal for the state to sell gas to the poor. Then it became legal for the state to give away someone's money to the poor.

Certainly had these people who influenced our national government so extensively attended school in Nebraska, Kansas or Iowa, the results would probably be vastly different.

Wheel Tax

Lincoln, Neb.

I would like to know where all the money is going that the people of Lincoln are paying in wheel taxes. I thought $4 was enough for what everyone is getting. Then they raised it to $6.

I am sure I am not alone in naming some streets that need fixing, and also some streets that never get the snow removed or sand that is needed. But the thing I can't understand is why the people have to pay for such things as putting five or six men on a job that should take only two or three to do.

If the money spent foolishly were put to good use, there would be enough in the budget we now have and the wheel tax would not have had to be increased. I also think city employment could be kept down enough so that the increase in the tax would not have been necessary.

All of this should have been brought to a vote of the people of Lincoln because they are not getting what they are paying for.

A few review clips are coming in on a new book. "I wish this man would write with more commas," says the Oklahoma reviewer in an irritated way. "His sentences are so abrupt." "This is the result of two things: Type-writer work or the dailies. 'Keep the sentences short!' cried the editor. The other was a stint of eastern stories. 'Mosey, ranger! I'm gonna dry-itch yuh, stranger!'"

It could have commas and long sentences. The prose could roll like a freighter in a full gale. Yet habit is strong. I cannot find a comma on the type-writer. The sentences are chopped with a machete. One thing about the Western story is that it never changes. This is wonderful for a Western story fan. He does not have to worry about what is going to happen. The good guys whip the bad guys. And the sheriff, he jails them, the ornery critters. So they were written in my time. And so today's authors juggle them out of the type-writer. Things like "Sex and The Single Girl" now. I never knew what was going to happen in that book. But when I saw somebody had written a book called "Sex and The Boy," I had a pretty fair idea. The wonderful thing about Western stories is that none of it was like that. I was reading excerpts from the life of "Wild Bill" Hickok last night. And though he lived a gunsmoke life, he could never have made the magazines of today with such antics. In 1895, the New York Herald sent Sir Henry Morton Stanley—"Dr. Livingstone I presume"—to interview "Wild Bill." Stanley inquired: "I say, Mr. Hickok, how many white men have you killed to your certain knowledge?" Said Hickok: "I suppose I have killed considerably over a hundred." Now did "Wild Bill" approach his victims as we were taught in the pulp-paper Code of the West? Did he say: "Reach for your guns, you varmint! For you are facing the fastest gun alive!" Did he say that? I cannot find that he did. While reprimanding Phil Coe, an Abilene gambler, "Wild Bill" talked Coe into putting his gun away. Whereupon Hickok whipped out a pair of hidden derringers and punctured him fatally. "Wild Bill" was Abilene's town marshal at the time. After shooting Coe he heard a clatter of boots behind him. "Wild Bill" turned in exactly the way a Western hero should. And he shot Mike Williams, a fellow peace officer who was running up to help him. I tell you, even when the rate was only a cent a word, no Western editor would have accepted a story like that. I am glad I did not read such things until I got out of the Western story business. It might have ruined my style. Even his ending in Deadwood would have chilled a true Western fan. "Wild Bill" was sitting in a poker game when a hoodlum named Jack McCall shot him in the back! He was holding aces and eights. That is the final straw. It should have been at least a flush. Distributed by The Chronicle Features

Gift Of $10,000 For Union College Hall Announced

A $10,000 gift from the Kinney-Lindstrom Foundation at Mason City, Iowa, was announced by the Union College Development Office. The grant will help finance the Rees Residence Hall addition now under construction. The gift is part of the $140,000 in special gifts the college is currently raising. The college has now received $85,000 from the estate of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Kinney, UC alumni. Dr. Kinney was one of the 73 students who attended UC during its first year of operation in 1891. The 1960 addition to South Hall was partially built with a $75,000 gift in the will of the Kinneys.

Baker Didn't Ever Influence Miamian

Washington (AP) — A Miami, Fla., vending machine operator testified Tuesday that former Senate aide Robert G. Baker never used influence to help him obtain a contract.

Eugene A. Hancock, former president of Serv-U Corp., told the Senate Rules Committee that Baker plans to appear before the committee and challenge testimony that he accepted $5,600 for helping another operator land a contract.

The payoff testimony was given Monday by Ralph L. Hill, former president of the Capitol Vending Co., Inc., of Washington.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said the group has no intention of calling Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., who was shown Monday to have let Baker in on a profitable Florida real estate investment.

"We don't need him—we're not investigating senators," Jordan said when newsmen asked if Smathers would be called.

Jordan noted that the committee's assignment is to investigate Senate employees, past and present, and he said Smathers is not an employee of the Senate.

Thoroughly

L. P. McLendon, the committee's chief counsel, said in answer to earlier questions that the Florida transaction would be investigated thoroughly.

Hancock, Tuesday's only witness, testified he was president of Serv-U "only in name" and knew little about its affairs. He said Baker's law partner, Ernest C. Tucker, was secretary and board chairman and controlled the company's bank account.

McLendon contends that Baker owned a half interest in 5,700 share of Serv-U stock held in Tucker's name.

Hancock insisted he still has no personal knowledge that Baker was one of the big stockholders in the firm, or that another stockholder was Edward Torres of Las Vegas, Nev.

Link To Gamblers

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., asked Hancock if he knew about Torres' "association with gambling interests."

"Now I know," the witness replied, adding that his only knowledge was from reading the newspapers.

Hancock swore he never gave Baker any money, and denied that Baker was to share in commissions Hancock expected from a contract with a Washington-area defense plant.

2 Witnesses To Ax-Slaying Get 14 Months

A Lincoln man and woman were sentenced to 14 months in Lancaster County Jail Tuesday by Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles on misdemeanor charges of accessory after the fact in connection with the Jan 2 ax slaying of Bill Nelson.

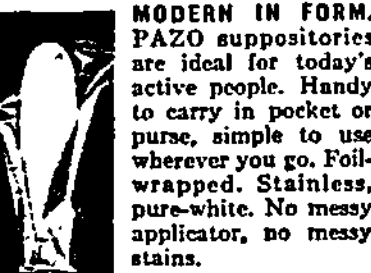

Willie Gilman, 32, and Mary Jenkins, 50, had pleaded guilty Jan. 6 to concealing knowledge from authorities concerning the murder of Mr. Nelson by Sylvester Lee of East St. Louis, Mo.

According to authorities, Gilman and Miss Jenkins witnessed Lee, 44, hit Nelson on the back of the head with an ax.

Nelson's body was discovered Jan. 3. Lee's body was found on the railroad tracks near Adams earlier that day. He apparently fell from a freight train while attempting to flee.

Washington Rolls Out Its Red Carpet For Italian President

Washington (AP) — President Antonio Segni of Italy received a red-carpet welcome to Washington Tuesday, launched two days of talks with President Johnson and was honored at a state luncheon and White House state dinner.

Johnson, greeting President and Mrs. Segni at Union Station, noted that "our ties with the Italian people go back several centuries," and spoke of the many Americans of Italian descent.

Segni stressed too that "many ties of history, civilization and blood" unite American and Italy. And he mentioned sadly the "bold image" of the late President John F. Kennedy "that left a mark on our times . . ."

Color Guard

With a 21-gun salute booming, the presidents drove to Blair House — where foreign guests stay — behind a color guard, military band and marching units of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard.

Several thousand onlookers bundled against 19-degree weather applauded from snowbanked curbs. The route was decorated with U.S., Italian and District of Columbia flags.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk entertained Segni, Italian Foreign Minister Giuseppe Saragat and other members of the Italian party at a State Department luncheon. In a toast he praised Segni and Italy's firm participation in the Atlantic Alliance.

Afterward Saragat met for about an hour with Rusk and his advisers. Composition of the group indicated that they discussed the Common Market and upcoming tariff-cutting negotiations at Geneva.

To Address Congress

The two foreign affairs chiefs then joined Johnson

Arab Chiefs In Secret Facts-Of-Life Powwow

Cairo (AP) — The leaders of 100 million Arabs excluded their summit staffs Tuesday night for a totally secret facts-of-life bargaining session to learn how or whether they can face down the common enemy, Israel.

The leaders went into virtual isolation with only their foreign ministers present. Only the 13 leaders — kings, presidents and government chiefs — and their foreign ministers were in the room to discuss decisions which could be adopted only at the highest political level.

Evidently the leaders felt that only in such isolation were they likely to be able to come up with some sort of final decision on a plan to thwart Israel's plan to divert the Jordan waters, and other pressing Arab matters.

The leaders took less than an hour to listen to a military report regarding a possible common posture toward Israel.

The meeting behind closed doors could permit leaders of 13 Arab nations to tell one another the sober facts in give-and-take exchanges and arrive at some conclusion about just where they stand.

There's been a rare display of Arab unity at top level in the mere fact of the meeting being held in the Arab League headquarters in the heart of Cairo, but unity of the moment is at best a fragile thing. Arab rulers have both an old and a recent history of bitterness and enmities which make the idea of cooperation, even in posture, against Israel, a misty goal.

Boy, 7, Treated After Car-Pedestrian Mishap

A 7-year-old Lincoln boy was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for facial injuries and released Tuesday afternoon after a car-pedestrian accident at 13th and South.

Lt. Reynold McMeen said John Roth, of 1510 So. 12th, ran into the side of a car driven by Lewis W. Patterson, 61, of 1730 M.

The boy reportedly lost a tooth as a result of the accident.

Trend Toward Deep Oil Well Drilling Seen For High Plains During 1964

By The Associated Press
The Nebraska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission says this could be the year that deep drilling for oil wells becomes common place on the High Plains.

Rumors persist in the industry that large producing companies are considering deeper drilling in western Nebraska.

Successful deep drilling, the commission said, could bring resumption of the busy drilling days that followed the Denver-Julesburg Basin discoveries in western Nebraska in 1949.

Oil men always have contended Nebraska will have to produce some deep sand oil reservoirs if the state is to remain in the big leagues of petroleum production. Interest in anything that will improve the outlook is particularly great now because of the drab year just ended. Drilling activity and production in all categories were down in 1963.

There were 501 completions in Nebraska compared with 597 the previous year. Of these there were 148 producing wells, 22 less than in 1962.

A recent estimate indicates Nebraska oil production was 21.8 million barrels, more than 3 million barrels below 1962 or a drop of nearly 12.5%.

Kimball County continued to lead the state in production with 6.7 million barrels. Banner was second with 5.45 million, Red Willow third with 4.4 million.

Gas wells in the western part of the state produced an estimated 7.6 million cubic feet of gas, down more than a million from the preceding year.

Nebraska Colleges Support Ribicoff's Proposal—Rogers

Washington (AP)—Nebraska colleges and universities support a proposed amendment under which federal income taxpayers would receive a benefit for some payments made toward cost of higher education, a Nebraska educator said Tuesday.

Dr. Vance D. Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan University, said an amendment proposed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., would make possible education for "many on our doorstep."

Rogers expressed his view at the weekly Nebraska congressional delegation breakfast. He is here attending a meeting of the Association of American Colleges.

Henry G. Moeller, Vermilion, S.D., Republican national committeeman for South Dakota, expressed belief officials of his state and Nebraska eventually will work out questions involving fishing licenses applying to the Missouri River in the Gavins Point Dam area.

There is pretty good fishing on the South Dakota side below the dam, he explained but "no one knows when he is crossing the border into Nebraska territory" where the Nebraska licenses are needed.

Also present at the breakfast was former State Sen. Jack Romans of Ord, representing Nebraska at a meeting of officials of the American Trucking Association.

Brochures For Tourists Okayed

Arapahoe (AP)—Directors of the South Platte United Chambers of Commerce voted Tuesday to publish 50,000 or more brochures listing all towns in the area and all recreation and other tourist attractions.

The directors also discussed plans for the agricultural clinics to be held March 24-25 in the central area of the SPUCC territory. Sites of the clinics have not yet been decided. Spokesmen said the meetings will be much more comprehensive in scope than in past years

Driver Receives 2-Year Sentence

Omaha (AP)—District Judge John Burke has sentenced Donald F. Troshynski, 38, to two years in prison for motor vehicle homicide.

Troshynski was found guilty by a jury last October in connection with the Aug. 18 death of an 11-year-old Omaha boy who was riding with his father when their car and one driven by Troshynski collided on an Omaha street.

CAPITOL OFFICE SPACE STUDY BEGINS

The Legislative Council Committee on State Office Space began its explorations Tuesday into ways of easing the overcrowded conditions of the State Capitol.

Included among the items the committee will study are the possible authorization of more power for the Capitol Building Commission, and the feasibility of additional excavation under the Capitol to provide more storage room.

Committee members visited with L. A. Enersen and Richard Youngscap of the Lincoln architectural and engineering firm of Clark & Enersen Olsson Burroughs & Thomsen about a study the firm conducted last year for the Capitol Building Commission.

The study involved findings of current space utilization in the Capitol, a projection of future needs, and a recommendation for future construction of a state office building adjacent to the Capitol.

Legislative Council Research Director Dr. Jack Rodgers was asked to ask State Engineer John Hossack to estimate the cost of additional excavation under the Capitol.

Dr. Rodgers also was requested to ask Enersen for an estimate of the cost of the proposed new state office building with the idea that the 1965 Legislature might authorize the setting aside of funds annually to allow a construction start in 1969.

There are 25 national Red Cross societies throughout the world, with 175,000,000 members.

Sheriffs Tab George Kelley

Sidney (AP)—The Nebraska Sheriffs and Peace Officers Association Tuesday elected Nemaha County Sheriff George Kelley of Auburn as president.

The association voted to meet next year in Grand Island.

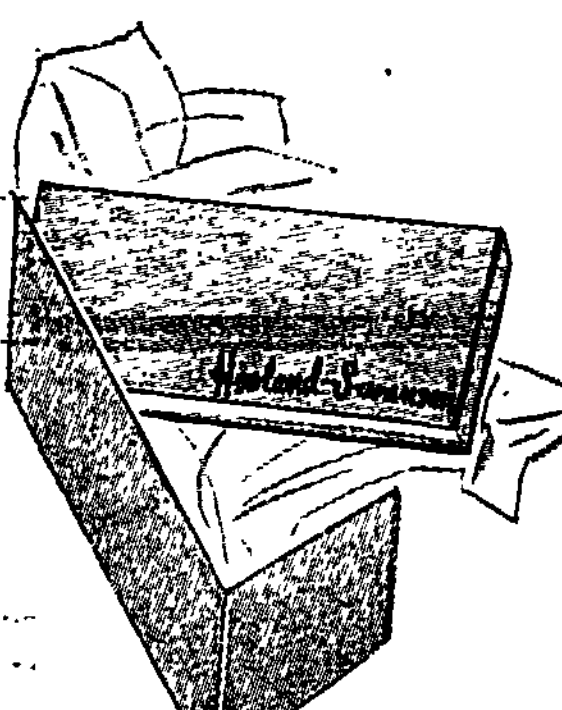

Other officers named at Tuesday's closing session of the current meeting were Sheriff Frank Knoche, Fairbury, first vice president; Sheriff Wilbur Gewocke, Holdrege, second vice president; Sheriff Leo Tomjack, O'Neill, third vice president, and Sheriff John Rohmert, Lexington, fourth vice president.

Former Sheriff Ralph Clements of Hartington was re-elected secretary-treasurer and Chief Deputy Larry Erickson, Fremont, was re-elected business manager.

In a resolution, the association asked that the mileage rate be increased to 12 cents a mile. It is now 10 cents when an officer is driving in his own county and counties immediately adjoining and eight cents beyond that.

COTNER TERRACE

It is beginning to warm up, just a little, you understand, but enough to initiate that thaw-weather sport of puddle jumping. We're sure that Cotner Terrace residents are just as familiar with puddle jumping and slush evasion as anyone else.

Sometimes, it's actually dangerous, especially when you happen to be looking up at the sun and clear blue sky and fail to notice that your next step off the curb will put you in the middle of a small lake.

However, not even puddles, slush, or melting snow can dampen the spirits of Cotner Terrace residents when it comes to social activities.

The cold weather had no effect on the "community birthday party" which Mrs. Leland W. Ward held at her home Monday afternoon. The occasion was a trio of birthdays in the neighborhood this month and Mrs. Ward's guests and fellow celebrants were Mrs. Wendell Sipp and Mrs. Forrest Morningstar.

It seems Mrs. Morningstar has been a busy person these last few days. Sunday evening, she and her husband, the Rev. Forrest Morningstar, entertained supper guests at their home. Their company included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Springer and their daughters, Carol, Cheryl, and Janet; Miss Linda Hindmard, Mr. and Mrs. David Morningstar and daughter Cheryl, and Ken Morningstar.

The family gathering was in part a farewell party for Ken, who left late Sunday evening for Bunker Hill, Ind., where he will be stationed.

A delayed Christmas party

Officers Installed

The Aksarben Toastmistress Club members at the Lincoln Air Force Base entertained their husbands Tuesday evening at a dinner at the Officers Club.

Special guests for the evening were Gen. and Mrs. Lewis Lyle, Col. and Mrs. F. W. Hansley, Maj. and Mrs. Bob Beaudro; club past presidents, Mrs. Peter Kraska and Maj. Kraska, and Mrs. Robert Hansen and Col. Hansen; and members of the Lincoln Toastmistress Club.

ty was held Friday evening at the Cotner Terrace home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wall and their daughters, Miriam and Rachel. Their guests included department co-workers of Mr. Wall's and enjoying the post-holiday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. George Hinz, Mrs. Pauline Norris and daughter Linda, the Rev. and Mrs. Delmar Stevens and family, and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Decker.

For added enjoyment, the Rev. Stevens showed pictures of his trip to Ethiopia, where he and his wife have served two terms as missionaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Burzlaff recently entertained houseguests who will be residents of Lincoln in the very near future.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rowden and their children, Larry Dean, Carol Anne, and Linda, of Ft. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowden and their family plan to move to Lincoln next month, and Mr. Rowden will be connected with the University of Nebraska.

They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burzlaff until last Wednesday, when they left for their temporary home in Ft. Robinson.

Entertaining her Canasta enthusiasts on Jan. 22 will be Mrs. Charles E. Leddy. The evening activities will include a dessert supper.

Bruce Sandahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Sandahl, celebrated his seventh birthday Monday afternoon via a party at the Cotner Terrace home of Mr. and Mrs. Sandahl.

His guests for supper and games were Bruce Alkire, Jess Broman, Larry Larson, and Lowell Nelson. We understand that the theme of the party was connected in some way to dogs and cats, and was repeated in the birthday cake, which was shaped like a dog.

Mrs. Jefferson Finch was installed as new president of the club and other new officers are Mrs. Conrad Schminke, vice president; Mrs. Robert Mueller, recording secretary; Mrs. James Campbell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Joseph Olson, treasurer; and Mrs. Ronald Harmon, club representative. Standing left to right are Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Olson, Mrs. Mueller, and Mrs. Campbell. Seated left to right are Mrs. Schminke and Mrs. Finch.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rittenberg were definitely present Saturday evening when Mr. Rittenberg's father, Nelson W. Rittenberg, was installed as Worshipful Master of Masonic Lodge 210.

The reason we're so sure is because Mr. Rittenberg was installed as Senior Deacon in the same lodge as his father. His grandmother, Mrs. Laura Rittenberg, traveled from Competition, Mo., for the ceremony, as did his sister, Mrs. Doris Bond of Omaha.

New For Spring

We have more news of spring fashions this morning, thanks to Jean Sprain Wilson of the Associated Press. The AP fashion writer has been attending the New York previews presented by a variety of designers.

Here are her comments: —Call it astronomy, anatomy, or fashion, the spring style preview here today was a continuing study of heavenly bodies.

As if to make up for the past seasons of muffled and shift-shrouded women, American designers are now style-bent on overexposure and wallpaper fit.

Today's contest for a new low in necklines was a tie between Cuban-exile designer Pepe Fernandez and another Spanish romantic, Luis Estevez.

With nary a blush, angular expressionless manikins proved that every curve was their own in bodices that did little else but keep shoulders warm. What was left of their gowns took a binding, curvaceous course to the floor.

In Estevez' collection, side slashes to above the knees provided glimpses of silken gams. Ruffles, sometimes framed with jewels at the waist, punctuated the neckline plunge. Perhaps the cate old-fashioned husbands Estevez included scarves.

Nor in all this bareness for ballrooms alone. In the Fernandez collection, handsome double-breasted jacket suits for daytime wear just barely buttoned up far enough.

By comparison, the décolletage of the Larry Aldrich Couture House seemed as pure as Sunday school costume. The collection borrowed through the fashion ages, with emphasis on blazer suits, pleated skirts, simple bias-cut blacks, blouses, flounces, polka dots, and jeweled bodices combined with swirly chiffon skirts.

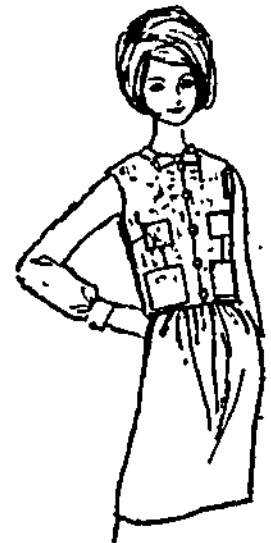

The dilemma the décolletage delirium creates for the modest and/or middle-aged woman are bateau or scooper necklines by Hannah Troy that hide lingerie straps. Nor did Miss Troy abandon the loose-fitting girth disguising dress.

WHY GROW OLD?

Josephine Lowman

"Do you think that it is bad for one to reminisce, so to speak? I have many fond recollections of years gone by. Some people record these in book form. I just converse regarding them. A friend scolds me and says that this shows that I am growing old. I am in my 70s. Is she right or wrong? I would also like to know what other readers think about this. I am worried."

A. I think that recollections of past experiences, both sentimental and humorous, add richness to the present. However, this can certainly be taken too far. If it turns into daydreaming, which robs the present of its vitality, color and eager interest, this does indicate an old-age attitude. We must remember also that what may send us, may not interest our friends. Unless the recital of past experiences is humorous or moving, it is best not to indulge ourselves, most of the time, anyway.

Q. "I have recently had a baby. I am in excellent health and have a good figure but I would appreciate some help with a couple of figure faults. I would like some exercises to build up my bust since it is very flabby, and some to get rid of the fat just above the waist. I am not overweight."

A. The following exercise is one of the best for increasing the bust measurement. Stand facing a mirror. Grasp the lower left arm with the right hand and the lower right arm with the left hand. Lift the arms to almost shoulder height. Resist with your hands as you push your elbows toward one another. Relax. Continue. If you are doing this correctly you will see your chest muscles jump.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

The chief purpose of the holdup play is to sever communication between the adverse hands. Thus, if we examine the club holding in the present deal, it can be seen that if South refuses to take the king and queen when they are lead, but then takes the jack, he has succeeded in preventing West from ever scoring the eight.

However, the question of how long to hold up in a suit is not amendable to a flat rule. A considerable amount of judgment must also be exercised by declarer in deciding when to employ the hold-up play. If it is used incorrectly, the hold-up play may prove to be a handicap instead of a blessing.

Take this case, for example, where West leads the king of clubs. South should duck because there is a danger that West may have the K-Q-J-x-x of clubs, and it is essential to exhaust East of clubs to cover this possibility.

But when West continues with the queen, South should take the ace. There is no good reason to hold up the ace now, because, if West has only four clubs, the contract is certain to be made by simply forcing out the ace of hearts, while if West has five clubs, the hold-up becomes pointless. This is because, if West has five clubs as well as the ace of hearts, the contract simply cannot be made.

The trouble with ducking the queen of clubs is that West may take it into his head to abandon clubs after winning the K-Q. He might shift his attack to diamonds by leading the jack, and, if he were to do this, the contract would be defeated.

The point is that the hold-up play has to serve a genuine purpose and the declarer should not make use of it merely because the opportunity exists. It should not be employed when there is a serious danger of attack elsewhere.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:
Average per capita income in Paraguay is about $130 a year, among the lowest in South America.

A new aerial container has a piston inside, separating the contents from the bottom of the car, where the gas is. As the piston rises, the contents are expelled.

The bald eagle, symbol of the United States, also was the great symbol of the Iroquois Indians.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE
One letter simply stands for another. In this example, A is used for the three L's, X for the two U's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different. A Cryptophone Quotation

There is a picture little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to open your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is a 6, write 6. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. (This is the key to the message the letters under the checked figures give you.)

Bluejay 'Guard' Silas Hits 19 To Top Scoring Record

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Omaha—Paul Silas cracked Creighton's career scoring record here Tuesday night in leading the Bluejays to 99-73 victory over New Mexico State.

Silas scored 19 points to bring his career total to 1,439, breaking the record set by Eddie Cole at 1,437 during the 1951-52 seasons. Cole set his mark in 99 games while Silas required only 67 to break it.

But the 6-7 Creighton senior had to move to a guard position to get his 19 points Tuesday night. New Mexico State set up a sagging zone that kept Silas from getting the ball until Bluejay coach Red McManus sent his All-American candidate to the outside.

But after the game Silas said he had no intention of replacing Creighton's backcourt players. "I hope to be able to move back under the basket from now on," Silas joked.

Silas didn't get his first shot until 12 minutes had elapsed and only took five shots the entire first half. His first field goal came with 3:45 left in the opening stanza.

In the second half Silas moved outside the Aggie's zone defense and connected on five field goals and two free throws to break the record. His record-breaking shot came on a long jumper with 6:05 left in the game.

The field goal gave Creighton an 87-56 lead and the contest was stopped while the ball was presented to Silas. McManus told the crowd that the ball would be retired in honor of Silas and the Bluejay coach also retired Silas for the night.

Creighton's 99 points equalled the season high set earlier against Long Beach State and the Bluejays' 45 field goals were a season high.

Creighton led from the outset as Charlie Brown hit a jump shot with 10 seconds gone. After New Mexico State's Don Henry retaliated with a field goal to knot it at 2-2 Creighton began its surge.

With Silas stymied by the zone defense, Tom Burke and Harry Forehand with 10 each, Loran James with eight, and Chuck Officer with six led the Bluejays to a 53-39 halftime margin.

New Mexico State went into a slow-down game at the start of the second half but Creighton's full-court press solved this as the Bluejays easily gained their 13th win against two losses this season.

Four Creighton players, in addition to Silas, "it in double figures. Officer scored 16, followed by Burke with 14, Forehand with 12 and Brown 10. Eleven Creighton players entered the scoring column.

Creighton takes a break now for semester exams and will face Marquette here next Thursday in its next outing.

The loss left New Mexico State with a 4-10 record.

Lincoln Star Special
Lawrence, Kan.—Kansas handed Nebraska its first Big Eight Conference defeat in starting fashion here Tuesday night, drubbing the Huskers, 74-48.

The victory evened Kansas record in Big Eight play at 2-2 while Nebraska stands 2-1. Kansas led all the way. Nebraska came down by seven, 15-8, closed to within one at 15-14, with 10:03 left in the first half but from then on it was all Kansas. The Jayhawks led 24-22 at the half and poured it in throughout the second half.

Kansas got a well balanced scoring performance from George Unseld, Steve Renko, Walter Wesley, and Al Correll. Unseld topped both clubs with 19.

Ellsworth Signs Chicago Contract

Chicago (AP) — Left-hander Dick Ellsworth, who went from 20-game loser to 22-game winner in one year, signed his 1964 contract with the Chicago Cubs Tuesday—for a substantial increase.

The 23-year-old southpaw reportedly will receive between $18,000 and $20,000.

Ellsworth won The Associated Press Comeback of 1963 award for his 22-10 record.

Win String Retains Top For Tigers

Maywood maintained its spot at the top of the Class D basketball ratings as it boosted its winning streak to 10 games last week.

The 10-game string, matched only by Class C leader East Butler, is the longest current victory streak in Nebraska.

Herman, boasting eight straight convincing wins, continues as the closest challenger.

Sumner, leader of the Class D ratings through much of last season before being sidelined in tourney play, showed its power with big wins over Axtell and previously unbeaten Arcadia. The Trojans are in the No. 3 spot.

Perennial power Polk has moved up to No. 4, swapping places with Hordville. These unbeaten clubs are in the same district.

Elgin St. Boniface, Alvo-Eagle and Beaver Crossing stay in the sixth, seventh and eighth spots.

Moving in to replace Western and De Witt are Bruning and Bartley.

Bruning hiked its winning streak to seven and takes the No. 9 spot.

Bartley, winner of two straight tournaments, now sports an 8-1 ledger.

Haupt Accepts Cyclone Post

Ames (AP) — Ernie Zwalen, assistant football coach at Iowa State for the past six years, Tuesday was named head line coach at Purdue.

Iowa State officials said Dale Haupt, an assistant coach at Tennessee, has been hired to replace Zwalen.

Zwalen was hired in the spring of 1958. He played tackle for Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton when Stapleton was an assistant coach at Oregon State.

Haupt also played for Stapleton. He was a guard at Wyoming when Stapleton was an assistant coach there.

Haupt later served as an assistant coach at Wyoming before joining the Tennessee staff.

Paul Cans 35 As Doane Falls

. . . 68 FOULS WHISTLED

By DON SUMMERSIDE

Crete—Nebraska Wesleyan's shooting kept pace with the temperature in tiny Butler Gym Tuesday night as the Plainsmen raced to a record-breaking 122-87 victory over old rival Doane College.

The 122 points eclipsed the old standard of 119, set against York College during the 1953-54 season. The two-team total—209—surpassed the 192 points racked up in a Wesleyan-Yankton contest last season.

Leading the way in the rough-house romp to NWU victory No. 12 was senior pivotman Chet Paul, who poured through 35 points.

The 6-5 Lincoln native, displaying uncanny timing on tip-in opportunities, connected on 16 of 23 attempts from the field. Paul was also the master of the boards, raking in 20 caroms.

Another Plainsman experiencing an outstanding night was junior Jim Booher. The 6-2 forward popped through 15 of his 25 points in the first half to spark Wesleyan to a 63-46 intermission advantage and backed up Paul in the rebounding department with 15 grabs.

The other three members of the starting five — Don Beckmann, Dick Nelson and Jim Roark — also scored in double figures and the entire Wesleyan squad saw plenty of action.

There was never any question as to the game's outcome after the opening tip-off, but there was some doubt if there would be 10 players on the court at the finish.

A total of 68 fouls were whistled, 37 charged to Wesleyan, and a couple of free-for-alls threatened in the closing moments. Doane, out-gunned 50-27, made up for a little of the difference by sinking 33 of 52 free throw chances.

Each club lost two men on infractions — Doane's Terry Koch and Dennis Nelson; NWU's Roark and Bernie Heiler. A total of 26 players participated.

ing action held the exit count down.

Dick Nelson's long jumper with 25 seconds elapsed in the first half gave the Plainsmen a lead they never lost.

Doane attempted to keep pace with Wesleyan's race-horse style and when NWU coach Irv Peterson sent in his sophomore relief team midway in the first half, Doane coach Bob Erickson responded with an all-never quintet of his own.

But the Plainsmen accuracy — 52% for first half and 49% for the game — never wilted in the gym's steamy climate and various NWU floor combinations mounted a larger and larger edge as the game progressed.

Nelson and Craig Kelley tied for Doane scoring honors with 22 points each. The Tigers' record stands at 7-9.

Nurmi Returns To Scene Of Triumph

New York (AP) — A trim, wiry, bald-headed little man who was the greatest distance runner of his time and a storm center of amateur athletics, returned to New York Tuesday to accept an award and to receive some of his greatest days.

He is Paavo Nurmi, the Flying Finn of the 1920s, who won seven Olympic gold medals, broke more world records than you can count, and perhaps set a record for living frugally on an expense account.

Nurmi, now 66 and a wealthy businessman in his native Finland, is one of the former Olympic greats to be honored at a sports dinner here.

In 1920 at Antwerp, Nurmi won two Olympic titles—the 10,000-meter run and the 10,000-meter cross-country. At Paris in 1924 he won Olympic gold medals in the 1,500 meters, 5,000 meters and 10,000-meter cross-country, and, with two countrymen, won a team race that was then part of the Olympic program. And in 1928 at Amsterdam he took the medal for 10,000 meters again.

It is impossible to list all the records he held at one time or another, but in 1932, when his competitive career was about over, he was listed as official holder of 11 world marks from one mile up. His times were considered fantastic, but in later years he said only lack of competition kept him from improving them.

Nurmi's greatest glory days probably came when he burst on the American indoor track scene in 1923, only a few months after his Paris Olympic triumphs.

The Flying Finn would run anywhere, at any time and against any opposition. Often he would run two or three times a week at indoor meets, and in 22 races within two months he bettered 23 indoor records.

Nurmi was something of an enigma to American track fans. Speaking no English, he made few public appearances except to run.

Between races he lived in a Bronx basement apartment with a friend who served as his interpreter when necessary. His training was Spartan. He lacked the color and appeal of chesty little Joie Ray, his leading American rival.

Only when the starter's gun was about to sound did Paavo step out on the track. Then he ran with faultless style and remarkable judgment of pace until his opponents, whoever they were, were beaten. Often he carried a stop watch and clocked his own progress in the race.

Later trips weren't always pleasant. He had several runs with the Amateur Athletic Union over confusing and apparently inflated expense accounts, but he was absolved and permitted to run.

Then in 1932, when he was training for a comeback effort to win the Olympic marathon at Los Angeles, Nurmi ran afoul of International Amateur Athletic Federation regulations and was suspended. The charges against him weren't revealed but IAAF officials indicated they considered the evidence against him overwhelming.

Sea Holds Fate Of Enchantress

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP)—The storm-tossed Atlantic Ocean held the secret Tuesday of the fate of two boys, two men and a woman forced to abandon a sinking schooner.

Surface vessels and aircraft combed an area 160 miles east of Jacksonville without finding a trace of Mr. and Mrs. John Pelton, his two children of Whittier, Calif., and Capt.

Swings His Partners—Even At 95

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—George (Pop) Slinger was square dancing Tuesday afternoon, warming up for two important dates.

The first is the three-day annual Southern Arizona Square Dance Festival beginning Friday, and the other is his 96th birthday March 17th.

Pop's been dancing since he was 10 years old. That was before the flood hit his hometown of Johnstown, Pa.

"I guess I've danced every week since then," he said. "Most weeks I danced five or six times. Sometimes it was seven or eight."

"But arthritis is catching up with me now. I don't get out as often, probably not more than once a week."

Pop is convinced he's the oldest square dancer in the nation. He's been making that claim for a couple of years, and no one has challenged him.

He went to his first old-fashioned barn stomp with his father.

"My father used to play for square dances, and I'd follow him around," he recalled. "He could keep that fiddle going all night long and never play the same tune twice."

Desert Helped

Pop came to Tucson in 1942 because he thought the desert air might help an asthmatic grandson. It did, so Pop stayed.

He and his wife found a square dance the first week they were here. From then on they never missed one until she died in 1949.

Pop is probably one of the few men who has ever danced with three of his great-grandchildren.

"You've got to square dance while you're young," he said with a twinkle. "You can't dance when you are too old."

Christopher de Grabowski, of Miami, skipper of the schooner Enchantress.

The last heard from the Enchantress was a voice—believed that of a child—counting in response to radioed Coast Guard instructions to enable her position to be plotted. That was 5:32 p.m. Monday.

At 4:08 p.m. the schooner's radio had reported:

"Rapidly sinking. Need assistance immediately. Five persons on board—three adults, two small children."

At 4:25 p.m. the schooner radioed again:

"Water up to knees in cabin. Going over side in two dinghies."

At that point, the Coast Guard asked the Enchantress to transmit as long as possible so that a fix of her position could be obtained. A voice started counting but gradually faded.

Searching the area were the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt; two destroyers, the Power and Perry; the freighter, Alcure; the tanker, Esso Baltimore; the Coast Guard cutter Sweetgum, and naval, Coast Guard and Air Force planes.

Seas were rough Tuesday night. Planes adding in the hunt were unable to land on the carrier and returned to Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

The Coast Guard said seas were 10 feet high, visibility was fair, water temperature was 75 degrees and the wind was 27 knots from the west-northwest.

A spokesman said the missing persons were equipped with life jackets and should survive for quite some time even if pitched from the dinghies.

The 56-foot schooner left Charleston, S.C., Friday after undergoing repairs following a cruise from New York. She was headed for St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands when she apparently went down.

The Enchantress had a 65-foot mast and as painted dark blue. She had an auxiliary motor but depended mainly on sail.

RFK To Talk Candidly With Indonesia Leader

Washington (AP)—President Johnson is sending Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to Tokyo for candid talks on the Malaysia crisis with Indonesian President Sukarno. The meeting could determine the future of shaky U.S.-Indonesian relations.

The Kennedy mission also is expected to involve talks between the brother of the late President and high Japanese authorities. Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda and Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira are seeking to avert a violent blowup in the Malaysia dispute.

The attorney general, accompanied by his wife and a small staff of White House and State Department advisers, will travel aboard a special Air Force KC135 jet tanker plane.

He plans to leave Wednesday morning.

State Department officials said Kennedy's itinerary is open. He may also fly to the Philippines and Malaysia, depending upon the outcome of his meeting with Sukarno.

Informed sources said Kennedy will not seek to mediate the dispute which has brought an alarming increase of violent clashes between Indonesian-supplied and trained guerrillas and British and Malaysian troops along the Malaysian frontiers in northern Borneo since New Year's Eve.

Rather, Kennedy is expected to give Sukarno a clear idea of the price the Indonesian leader would have to pay if the present tense situation explodes into open warfare.

Also, the attorney general will report back to Johnson the attitude of Sukarno on how far he will push his policy against Malaysia.

Officials said the United States will not ask Britain to back away from its commitment to defend Malaysia nor will it ask the newly formed Malaysian Federation to stop existing for the sake of peace and harmony in the region.

Atty. Gen. Kennedy played a trouble-shooter role once before in persuading Indonesia and the Netherlands to work out their dispute over West New Guinea in a peaceful settlement. In that dispute, the weight of U.S. influence was on the side of Sukarno. This time, the United States is supporting Malaysia.

Kennedy is not expected to threaten Sukarno with a cutoff of American aid although this would be mandatory if the President finds U.S. assistance being given to a country which is committing aggression against another friendly nation.

Restrictions On Stock Options Voted

Washington (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee agreed Tuesday to impose moderate restrictions on tax advantages now enjoyed by some corporation executives under stock option plans.

It approved with only minor changes the limitations on stock option privileges provided in the $11.1 billion tax cut bill passed by the House Sept. 25.

The committee acted after it made public a Treasury report disclosing that seven Chrysler Corp. officials stood to gain up to $12.1 million through options to purchase Chrysler stock which they give themselves over a six-year period.

Approval of the controversial option issue ended a day-long fight and moved the big tax reduction measure further along the road toward final committee action.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the committee, working on its version of the bill, may finish its drafting task by the end of the month.

Dirksen, a committee member, voiced doubt however that it would be passed by the Senate before the Lincoln birthday recess, scheduled to start Feb. 11.

Under the House language tentatively approved by the Senate panel, executives given options to buy company stock at a certain price would have to exercise them within five years. They would have to hold the stock for at least three years before selling it.

Present law permits options to run for 10 years and requires buyers to hold the stock only six months. The new restrictions would prevent executives from taking quick profits on shares they purchased at low prices under options, then sold at high prices in a rising market.

The bill would retain present law which taxes such profits at low capital gains rates, or a maximum of 25%, and then only when the stock is actually sold.

George H. Love, Chrysler board chairman, benefited by stock increases totaling $2,590,660, the Treasury report said. Beside Love, it cited stock benefits enjoyed by Paul C. Ackerman, R. S. Bright, John D. Leary, F. W. Misch, E. C. Quillen and Lynn A. Townsend.

The report said Love's profits included gains both actually realized by subsequent sale of the stock and "paper profits" not yet actually realized because he had not sold all his shares up to Dec. 31, 1963 — the date covered by the report.

Gore said no one violated the law, but the case proved the need to close "the stock option loophole."

Ford Wins Motor Trend's "Car of the Year" Award

January 8: Motor Trend magazine's "Car of the Year" Award goes to an engineering breakthrough! It honors all the '64s from Ford "For engineering advancement in the concept of Total Performance, proven in open competition."

Here's what the Motor Trend Award means to you...

This coveted citation salutes Ford's unique total performance—the skillful blending of power and handling, balance and cornering ability, swift acceleration, stronger, surer braking power and, above all, tireless durability. These are the things you want in your car. Now you know where to find them!

The editors of Motor Trend, America's largest general automotive magazine, watched Ford's total performance in open competition... saw competition-modified Fords win every 500-mile stock car race in the last year, saw Ford-built engines end an era at Indianapolis and sweep the sports car circuits.

Then they drove the 1964 Fords, Falcons, Fairlanes and Thunderbirds and discovered how the lessons of open competition have helped breed into them a new kind of total performance for the open road, for your kind of driving. And then they made their award!

The "Car of the Year" Award is an impressive testimonial, but see for yourself—take the wheel of a '64 from Ford. These cars speak for themselves with their ease of handling in a supermarket parking lot or their greater stability on a rain-slicked blacktop.

Before you buy any new car this year, test-drive total performance in a Solid, Silent Super Torque Ford, now hundreds of pounds more car than anything in its field. Try America's only total performance compact, the Falcon V-8, totally new, totally changed. Or, any of the '64 Cars of the Year from Ford!

Dunn Files For Treasurer

SEEKS REPUBLICAN NOMINATION

Retired Lincoln banker Byron Dunn Tuesday filed with the secretary of state for the Republican nomination for state treasurer.

Only Monday, Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison named Dunn as a special advisor to him without pay for coordinating activities on state development.

Dunn retired Jan. 1 as chairman of the board of the National Bank of Commerce here.

Dunn was also chairman of the governor's educational television study committee which recommended legislation establishing a statewide ETV network which was enacted by the 1963 Legislature. He has also been active in civic and business affairs for many years.

Dunn, 75, becomes the fifth Republican candidate for state treasurer. Others are Ludwig Martin Larsen of Lincoln, Rollin F. Clark of Lexington, Eugene G. Richardson and Leo N. Swanson, both of Omaha.

The only Democratic candidate thus far is Fred Sorensen of Omaha. Because the constitution limits the treasurer to two two-year terms, incumbent Clarence L. E. Swanson cannot run again this year.

Dunn said he had been eyeing the state treasurer's post even prior to his bank retirement. He said his decision to seek the office will not keep him from working for the state in development, agricultural and tourism programs as a volunteer participant.

WHO Agrees Smoking Is A Cause Of Cancer

Geneva (AP) — The U.N. World Health Organization (WHO) expressed agreement Tuesday with the findings of an American scientific panel which described cigarette smoking as a cause of cancer.

Dr. Marcelino G. Candau, WHO's Brazilian director-general, said the American findings seem to be in line with similar reports elsewhere and with the organization's own conclusions.

State Can't Handle Private School Aid

Nebraska's constitution prohibits the state from administering federal construction funds for private and church-related colleges under the new federal higher education facilities act, it was learned Tuesday.

Disclosure of the constitutional prohibition was made by Deputy Atty. Gen. Gerald Vitmas at a meeting at the State Capitol called by Gov. Frank Morrison and attended by representatives from all colleges and universities in the state.

The constitutional prohibition does not necessarily close the door on the private and parochial colleges' participating in the program, however, because it is hoped they will be able to deal directly with the federal government for a share of the construction funds.

Will Be Discussed
Morrison had asked the attorney general for an opinion on this question. Vitmas did not deliver a formal opinion as such, but said all implications of the problems involved will have to be discussed at a meeting to be held in Chicago Thursday with federal officials on the new program.

The governor also had asked for an opinion on whether he has authority to name a commission to administer the state's anticipated annual allocation of about $2 million from the fund to higher education institutions.

Vitmas said it is not yet known whether the governor can do so, and this problem also will have to be reported to federal officials.

No Such Agency

The new act provides that a single agency shall administer the funds in each state, but Nebraska presently has no such agency acting over all colleges and universities collectively.

Vitmas said if the federal program requires that such a commission have certain constitutional duties, it probably would be illegal.

Another matter awaiting further exploration deals with the ability of state colleges and universities to participate in the loan part of the federal program. These public institutions do not now have such authority.

Burney Not Only GOP Governor Candidate

A story on Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney erroneously listed him as the only candidate to file so far for the Republican nomination for governor. Leo Bartunek of Lincoln also has filed for the office.
